Domestic market

Australian shares suffered a fall in August as global pressures weighed on sentiment while earnings season mostly delivered in line with expectations. The S&P/ASX 200 Index returned -2.4% over the month, with the Materials (-7.5%) and Energy (-5.6%) sectors the hardest hit. Australia's largest building materials maker Boral (-17.6%) suffered a sharp fall after reporting a 7% drop in underlying net profit for FY19. Oil and gas engineering group WorleyParsons (-23.9%) sold off heavily despite posting better-than-expected revenue and profit growth, but with management flagging "macroeconomic global uncertainty" and shying away from offering a forecast for FY20.

Bucking the trend was the Health Care sector (+3.6%), which saw solid gains from Nanosonics (+21.1%), which announced a 39% increase in revenue and installed base growth of 18%, while ResMed (+8.4%), continued to surprise investors on the upside with earnings growth of 10.6%. The IT sector was flat in August but Afterpay Touch Group (+15.9%) was the standout performer, enjoying full-year underlying sales growth of 140% and growing its US customer base to 2.1m only 15 months after launch.

Global markets

Global equity markets could not withstand the pressure of renewed trade tension and a host of other geopolitical risks dominating the headlines in August. The MSCI World Ex Australia Index returned 0.3% in Australian dollar terms but fell 2.0% in local currency terms. The US S&P 500 Index fell 1.6%, with the Energy sector (-8.7%) solidifying its position as the worst performer over 12 months, although its representation in the index has shrunk significantly since the oil market highs in mid-2008, while the higher yielding Utilities (+4.7%) and Consumer Staples (+1.6%) sectors were the only ones to finish the month in positive territory.

Steep selling occurred midway through the month, triggered by a brief inversion of the yield curve between 2-year and 10-year Treasuries. Volatility returned to the share market, with the CBOE Volatility Index rising from July's low of 12.1 to 24.6 at the start of August and remaining at elevated levels. The STOXX Europe 600 Index fell 1.6% in August, with resources shares (-9.0%) and banks (-7.0%) the worst performing sectors. The ECB's commitment to further stimulus has not helped Europe's banking sector, with lower rates putting pressure on lending margins and hampering growth. In the UK, the Brexit issue remains a source of uncertainty despite a change in leadership, with the FTSE 100 Index falling 4.1% as further deadlock appeared to be the only visible outcome.

Currencies

The Australian dollar weakened 1.0% in August in trade-weighted terms and 2.2% against the US dollar. Weakness against the greenback is due to the outlook for interest rates and investors' preference for safe-haven assets. The US Fed is expected to cut rates further this year, but it appears likely that the RBA will cut by more, which has led to the US dollar appreciating with respect to the Australian currency.

Over the three months to the end of August 2019 the Australian dollar has fallen 1.8% in trade-weighted terms, depreciating against the US dollar (-3.0%), Japanese yen (-4.7%) and euro (-1.3%) and rising against the British pound (+0.8%).

Commodities

Australia has ridden the commodity wave to its first trade surplus since the Whitlam government, but things are starting to take a turn. The price of iron ore was hit with its largest monthly fall in eight years and may come under further pressure as recession fears mount. Aluminium (-2.6%), Copper (-4.6%) and Zinc (-9.8%) came under pressure, while Nickel (+23.5%) jumped higher on the back of speculative trading prompted by supply concerns in Indonesia.

An intensification in the trade war was not enough to make up for supply disruption risks in the Gulf region and OPEC's oil output deal. The Brent spot price fell 4.7% to US$61.04 per barrel and the WTI price fell 5.9% to $55.07. Gold benefited from the geopolitical climate, rising 6.7% to US$1,242.61/oz.
